

Odious Ari's Tips for Good Living

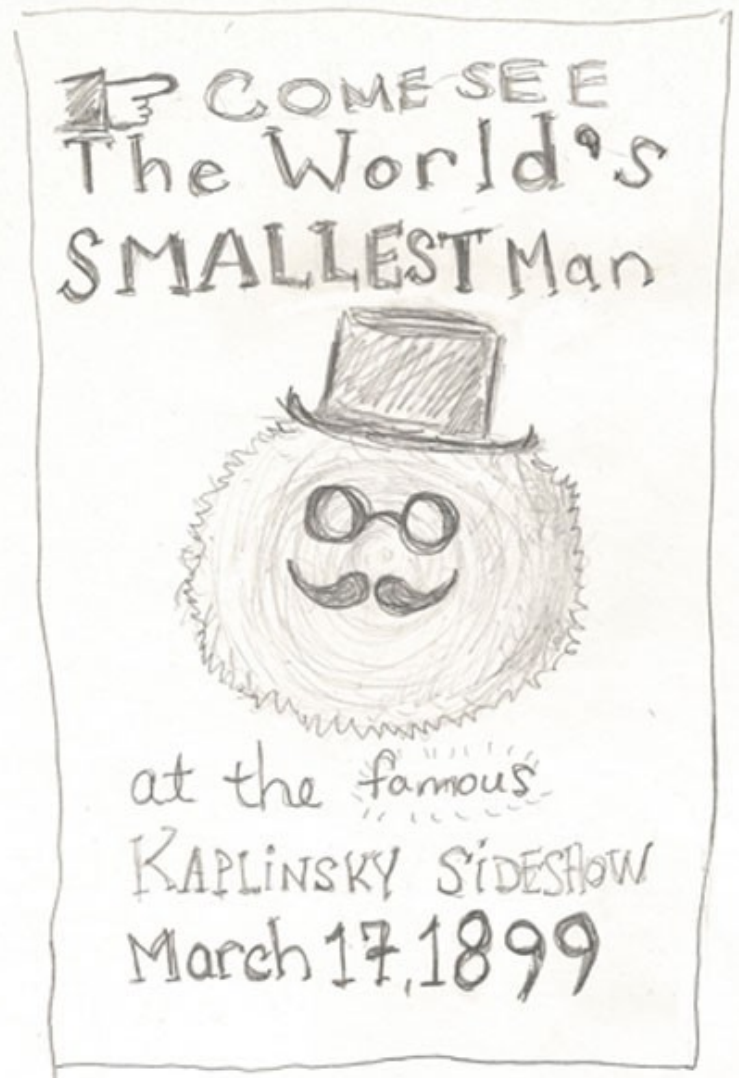

Folks, for those of you who don't know me, I'm Odious Ari, famous Vaudeville star whose career has spanned three centuries! You might ask, "How is this possible, Odious? You're only 102!"

Well, you must remember that my first Vaudeville stint occurred while I was still in my mother's egg billed as "The World's Smallest Man." What a precocious little cell I was!

That was in the late 1800s. I've come a long way since then, folks, and I want to share some of the wisdom I've picked up in the last hundred plus years spent on this rotating psychological torture chamber.

I know you can't wait to get started, so here we go!

Odious Ari's Tips for Good Living

1. Do some research!

Find out about others who are doing what it is you want to do - and eliminate them.

2. Practice, practice, practice!

A successful entrepreneur needs to be disciplined, which means constant practice of your craft. For me, pick-pocketing didn't come naturally. I really had to work at it, but look at me now!

3. Toot your own horn!

No one else is gonna toot it for you. Let everyone know how amazing you are by telling them over and over each and every minute.

4. If at first you don't succeed...figure out who to bribe.

5. Reward yourself!

You deserve it, you've worked hard. Go crack open a bottle of Thunderbird.

Odious Ari's Tips for Good Living

Folks, in addition to magic, music, and faith-healing, I've had a few other jobs in my time. So I'm somewhat of an expert life coach and offer advice whenever I can to sad sacks who can't figure out what to do with themselves.

So here is a series called "Featured Job of the Day" where I will educate you on today's hottest jobs.

Matchmaker

Not in the Shadchan sense, but literally match making.

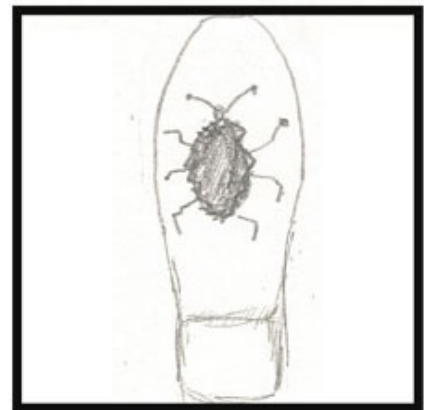

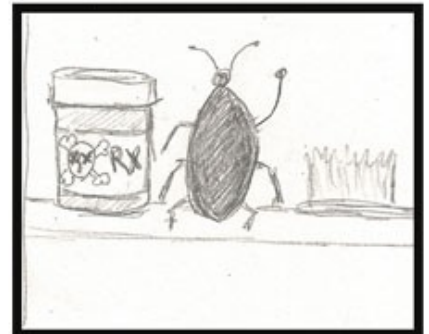

Now this is a job that has staying power, since it's been around since the mid 19th Century. And it has been a job that has broken down barriers since it's been performed primarily by women.

Here's the run-down: you get paid a pittance to make matches by dipping small sticks of wood into white phosphorus. Sounds satisfying, non?

Now, there are some downsides, albeit minor. White phosphorus is toxic, so you might get a toothache and then your jaw could swell up with weeping abscesses and slowly rot away.

On the up side, this condition has a fancy name, "Phossey jaw," and your jaw will glow green in the dark, which is a fun thing to show off at parties. And anyway it can be easily cured by having your jawbone removed.

So today's featured job is Matchmaker!

And standing by whistling
Whilst they meet their
